Dear Gareth,

A new business needs the right tools to be successful in its undertakings.

Having limited knowledge about computers, laptops and software, my first port of call would have been one of the larger computer stores if it hadn't had been for the members of BNI recommending your services.

The specification that I gave you for my requirements of a laptop was probably the worst you have ever received, but your professional support and advice have since provided me with the most suitable laptop that I need for my business.

I am extremely happy to recommend Halchax services to my clients and friends.

N. Tomlinson
